

To Whom it May Concern,

I am in complete support of stronger net neutrality legislation. Individual americans, like myself, need the protection of the government against larger corporations and interests to exercise their right to choose, my right to choose, what they consume on the world wide web. Taking net neutrality protections away undermines my freedom and I am completely against measures to reduce it.

Sincerely,

Matthew Stoker